

NOW HIRING

CDL DRIVERS

JOB SUMMARY:

Your local Co-op is always looking for CDL drivers to work across locations driving products from distribution centers to the local store. The ideal candidate will be an overall customer service-driven team player who can also work well independently. Interested applicants should already possess a CDL driver's license. When not delivering or administering products, individuals usually assist in the sales, warehousing, and movement of agronomic, bulk feed, and other agricultural products. Therefore, a general knowledge of agriculture products and operations is preferred. Co-op truck drivers can expect to be home each night!

QUALIFICATIONS:

- High School / GED Diploma
- One year of commercial driving experience, preferred
- Class A Commercial Driver's license (CDL) required
- Tanker Endorsements (or ability to attain)
- General knowledge of agriculture products and equipment
- Ability to communicate and work effectively with team members and customers
- Self-reliant and able to accurately work under limited and remote supervision

ESSENTIAL JOB FUNCTIONS:

Essential Duties and Responsibilities include the following. Other duties may be assigned.

- Picks up goods and materials, load and unloads cargo, verifies shipments for accuracy, and deliver them as instructed
- Analyzes geographical maps to avoid dangerous routes and acclimates to all types of seasons
- Records sales or provide information on daily sales or delivery record with accuracy
- Listens to and resolves service complaints
- Organizes and warehouses stock on shelves and racks
- Performs pre-inspection, routine maintenance, and cleaning of the truck and other equipment
- Adheres to all safety regulations and procedures
- Provides exceptional customer service to farmer members and other patrons